

LIFE OF A GINGER

ABOUT KATE

Writer | Wife | Mom | Foodie

Kate Kelly is an over-caffeinated, “semi-single parent” with 5 strong-willed daughters, 3 dogs, “Miss Scout” a 1-year-old Great Pyrenees, “Sparky” and “Bella” two crazy black labs, “io” an eastern box turtle, and a husband of over 22 yrs living and working 700 mi away from home.

In her spare time, Kate enjoys traveling the globe, sampling fine cuisine, and volunteering for charity events. Because she has no spare time, she instead manages an occasional trip through the drive-thru at Chick-fil-A (which counts as travel and dining) and “volunteering” to chauffeur her girls to their activities.

An avid reader, Kate carries her iPhone loaded with the Kindle app with her at all times so that she can read at stoplights, in waiting rooms, and when she is stuck waiting in the car for her daughters, because she doesn't have time to read when she is home.

ABOUT THE BLOG

It's not just a hair color, it's a state of mind.

Kate Kelly created Life as a Ginger (formerly My Mommy Brain) in 2008 as a platform to share with her family and friends the misadventures of a work-from-home mom with an infant that never slept. Kate's posts gained popularity with other moms around the world and she decided to start sharing more stories with her fans.

Follow along as Kate tries to navigate her way through life as a food-obsessed, crazed “semi-single” mom, entrepreneur, and travel enthusiast that rarely gets to travel—aside from the grocery store and events her kids are involved in.

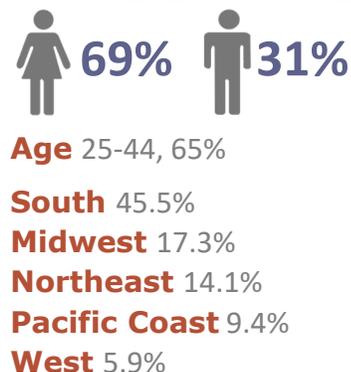

Kate enjoys sharing her interests, experiences, and love of family, food, and fun.

Through her blog, Kate hopes to inspire others to experience new foods, drinks, and adventures, laugh at themselves, and enjoy their life & family to the fullest.
